The facts of the case are clear from the English memo dt 6th July 09 in the Vernacular file and are briefly summarized below:—

'ar 5)

This is a dispute relating to the Archakship of Ranganathaswamy and Srinivasa Devam temples at Kurunangi, Chickmagalur Tk. located in a small temple in the village the temple-building of Tirumala Devaru having fallen into ruins, the Deity is kept in the small temple of Ranganatha Swamy referred to.

The claimants to the Archakship are noted below:—

Guddiah (No issue) wife Lakshmamma	Rangajja Pandoraja (Applt before Govt)

It is said that Guddiah and Rangajja while alive were doing Puje by annual turns and were each enjoying one-half of the entire Inam lands. Guddiah and Rangajja died recently and the present rival claimants are Lakshmamma (former's widow) and Pandoraja (latter's son) Lakshmamma desires that her sister's son Hanumantha may be permitted to succeed to the rights of the Archakship of her husband The exact relationship of Guddiah and Rangajjah cannot be ascertained (both parties having produced 2 different genealogical trees), but it is reported that Lakshmamma, Rangajja's wife and Hanumantha's mother are sisters (vide Amildar's report dt 1901 dated 13th Febry. 1909).

Hag 4) Lakshmamma says that Hanumanta was living with her and her husband while alive, for a long time past, that her husband wanted to take the boy in adoption and that he is her foster-son and performed the obsequies of her deceased husband and prays that he may be permitted to do Puje in place of her husband and enjoy the lands.

Hag 5) Pandu Rau objects to the applt of Hanumantha and states that his father had merely allowed Gudoin to do Puje. He further represents that that the post should not be given to one outsider unconnected with the family and that Lakshmamma is entitled to maintenance during her life-time.

The Amildar has examined the witnesses cited by both parties as well as the documents produced.

Hag 1-4) The Amildar reports that the village is divided into parties and suggests that the manual system of worship may be introduced whereby the nominee of Lakshmamma viz Hanumantha and Pandurayya may be permitted to conduct worship each a year and enjoy the Inam lands in equal shares.

On 24.7.1909 the Dy Commr has ordered that Lakshmamma and Pandurayya are each entitled to one-half of the Puja hak and the Inam lands, and that the former can get the duties performed by Hanumantha or any other person she pleases

Against the above order, Pandurayya has appealed to Govt

The grounds for appeal are:—

1) that he does not know full well whether Lakshmamma is his cousin and that as she is issueless, the nearest male heir in the family is competent to succeed to the post and

2) that the valuable jewels of the temple should not be given to the custody of Lakshmamma's Gumastha without taking adequate security.

Lakshmamma deposes in her deposition of 16th November 1908, that the under-mentioned witnesses may be examined:—

1) Bundanike Hanumanna (70 years) 2) Channa Basave Gowda (55 or 60 years)
3) Kodiyalada Thimma (58 years) 4) Maridrangana Javiah (48 years)

On 14-12-08, Hanumanna deposes that Lakshmamma's husband Guddiah's father Gudda Thimmah and Pandaraza's grand-father Kunda Gowdah (both of whom he had seen) were performing Puje in annual turns and enjoying one-half of the Inam lands, that Hanumantha Razza at the early age of 10 or 12, was with Guddiah, performing the Archak duties also now and then; that Gowdah wanted to take the boy in adoption but the deponent did not know whether adoption actually took place; that Guddiah and Rangajja were cousin (Yes & Bs of) brothers; and that since Guddiah's death, Pandaraza has alone been doing the Archak duties without allowing Lakshmamma's share of the Puje Hak. When cross-examined by Pandaraza, he further states that some 20 or 25 years ago, Lakshmamma was living with her parents for a year or so; that Pandaraza's father brought her back and that since then, she was living with her husband

In Corroborating the Statement of Hanumanna, the remaining four witnesses have also Seposed on the same date that Rangajja and Gurrish were divided cousin brothers and that the latter's obsequies were performed by his widow and the boy Hanumantha Raya.

On the same date, Shanbhogue Subbanna and Patel Somare Gowda have Sepos before the Amildar corroborating the Statements of the witnesses. The Patel has also said that a date had been fixed for adoption, but the Purohit's absence stood in the way and some time after, Guddiah died.

In his deposition of 30-9-08, Shanbhogue Subbanna stated that the villagers told him that Pandurazja's grand-father and Lakshmamma's husband's father were brothers.

In his deposition of 14th Decr 08, Pandurazja has cited 7 witnesses, but as desired by him, only 4 were examined by the Amildar on 18th January 1909.

He also says that he had seen Guddia's father Guddi Thimmiah and Guddiah who were performing Puje, that he had not seen Gudda Thimmiah father and that they and Pandurazas he had heard it said that grand-father were cousins.

There is not much dispute about the facts. It is admitted that appellant's father and respondent's husband were doing pooja by turns.

Appellant contends that respondent being a widow without any issue cannot claim to be pujari but is only entitled to maintenance. He is willing that she might enjoy some lands during her lifetime.

The only question is whether or not a woman can claim the office. The D. J. Court has decided in her favour from permitting her to appoint a pujari. This is fair.

The contention that she is entitled to maintenance cannot be accepted as the temple inam lands can only be looked upon as remuneration for service and not as private property. They can only be enjoyed by the person rendering the service (Vide G. order No 519, 8 father Rangajja and one Guddiah were performing the Puje of Sri Ranganatha Devaru and Tirumala Devaru temples at Kurumangi in the Chickmagalur Taluk by turns in alternate years. After Rangajja's death, appellant was appointed Pujari in his place & Guddiah also having died, the Dy Commr declared that Guddiah's wife Lakshmamma was entitled to the Puje hak in equal shares with the appellant and ~~that Lakshmamma was at liberty~~ to nominate her own Gumastha for her turn.
